the time of our lives

For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven:
a time to be born, and a time to die;
a time to plant, and a time to pluck up what is planted;
a time to kill, and a time to heal;
a time to break down, and a time to build up;
a time to weep, and a time to laugh;
a time to mourn, and a time to dance;
a time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together;
a time to embrace and a time to refrain from embracing;
a time to seek, and a time to lose;
a time to keep, and a time to cast away;
a time to rend, and time to sew;
a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;
a time to love, and a time to hate;
a time for war, and a time for peace.
What gain has the worker from his toil?

with respect, we dedicate . . .

You have made these years of high school, times to remember. We, the seniors, are grateful for all your efforts to guide us into accepting the responsibilities of life.

To you, MISS ALWAYNE McCLURE, with great respect, we dedicate the 1964 Blue and Gold.

Miss McClure explains the importance of grammar in every day life.

Always willing to help on any Senior project, Miss McClure measures a senior for cap and gown.

Her many and varied qualities enable her to give us foresight into our future.

"for everything there is a season . . ."

Now is the time for our generation to excel in all aspects of our everyday lives, to establish concrete ideals, and to direct our thinking toward the future. Being youthful and seemingly carefree, we are envied by our elders, yet are dependent upon their wise advice. Engrossed with the activities of the busy world about us, we eagerly work for the knowledge and understanding which have been characteristic of our heritage.

For some students, this is a time for ballgames, parties, dances, proms, and dating; for others, a time to study, to get a job, to get one's drivers license, to consider quitting school. These are the years for gaining priceless truths, as well as social and academic experiences which will have a direct bearing upon the future life of each student. Having only one life, during which this "golden age" passes so quickly, we should strive with combined effort toward making our high school career truly the "time of our lives."

Jane Foltz and Nicky Turner were chosen as Mr. and Miss School Spirit because of their contributions to promote the spirit of Griffith.

Oh my, but you do look cute!

Please wait a minute; we are trying to think of something to do.

The majorettes prove their talent when they perform with their fire batons.

A cry for action rises from the crowd.

Who's that blonde standing behind you?

Silence is golden.

every matter under heaven:"

Each day at Griffith is filled with contrasts; Silent moments spent in the library; anguished cries at ballgames; stately homecoming courts; jubilant fans in a caravan. Whatever the situation, the spirit of Griffith remains.

Autumn brings the thrill of football, and this season was a victorious one for Griffith. Crowds of supporters rose excitedly during tense moments or were hushed in respect to injured players. The spirit prevailed even after the games, in locker rooms or at school dances.

O.K.! What wise guy turned off the electricity?

Did anyone bring some bubble bath?

"...a time to build

From the beginning of the year, Griffith students were inspired by the leadership of a new administration. Many students took advantage of added opportunities in club activities, service projects and participation in community affairs.

Each member of the student body was encouraged to do his part in the intellectual, recreational, and material pursuits of the school. Many individuals gained new insights and sought advice concerning goals for the future.

If we are lucky we might have them all sold by next Christmas.

If they only behaved as well as they look.

Students sadly look on as the funeral procession for the President proceeds through the streets of Washington.

New experiences such as College Day and senior recognition offset the familiar activities of classes and sports. Amusing happenings of the day gave way to tremendous world involvement as the entire student body watched the tributes paid to the late President Kennedy.

The student body assembles as a tribute to President Kennedy.

I'm now doing better—5 words a minute.

Fight! Panthers. Win tonight.

Each day at Griffith was filled with work and play. Many activities and achievements involved only individuals or small groups. Some were recognized by those around them; others were known but to a few. Whatever his standing, each student had a place at Griffith and joined with the faculty in making each day more pleasing and beneficial. With the days growing into years, each student will treasure in his mind the fond memories of school and the friendships that he shared here.

The chorus entertains the student body during assembly.

One's high school career is not complete without some participation in extra curricular activities. This year the activities of the Griffith High School student body have been more varied and beneficial than ever before. The formation of several new organizations has enabled each student to have an opportunity to share in the fun of club parties and projects. Many of our clubs have been recognized by various community organizations for their services rendered in our community and for their superb co-operation in joint projects. Our student body has become more unified, and our school spirit has risen as a result of increased student participation and co-operation in club activities.

The Key Club, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, is an international honor club for boys. To be eligible for induction, a boy must have completed his freshman year and exhibited the qualities of leadership, scholarship, and service. The Key Club offered its service through providing and maintaining drink machines in the teachers' lounges. Other Key Club projects this year included distributing and collecting Goodwill bundle bags, and providing the shelves used by the students while in the cafeterias. Each year our Key Club sends two delegates to a district convention. Excelling in service to both community and school, the Key Club truly exemplifies the ideals on which it was founded.

Athletics play an important role in the life of any school. Griffith teams were handicapped this year because of the small school enrollment. However, they were not easily discouraged. The football team had a fine season, and the basketball teams showed an outstanding spirit as they battled their opponents. Wrestlers, in their first stint at Griffith, enjoyed a successful season along with baseball and track teams which highlighted the spring events. Although our teams have not won top honors in our conference, they have exhibited the qualities of good sportsmanship, good character, and a lively spirit which are more rewarding than victory.

The record of this year's football team showed a marked improvement over those of recent years. The Panthers were a more powerful team than the five-four record showed. Definitely a second-half team, our boys changed five supposed defeats into victories. The will to fight, desire to win, and strong support from the student body and faculty aided the success of the 1963 team. An experienced, but young, team promises for next year a record which will exceed its mediocre marks in the 3-A Conference.

Comparing talent and looks with all other schools in Forsyth County, Griffith is tops when it comes to cheerleaders. Organizing the Pep Club, decorating the halls, assembling caravans, and yelling themselves hoarse at ballgames are only a few of the accomplishments of these eleven girls. Much of this year's school spirit was a product of the hard work of our cheerleaders.

Coach Queen gives Danny Fishel instruction before sending him into the game.

With a new coach and many new players, our boys fought with all their hearts to give us a team of which to be proud. Although they did not win every game, their fighting spirit was always present. Under the guidance of Mr. Queen, our boys played as a team, not as individual players attempting to make all the points. Because of valuable experience gained this year, Griffith should boast of a fine team during the next season.

Mrs. Phillips, girls' basketball coach, stated her opinion of this year's team at the first pep rally, "I can't promise you a win tonight, but I can promise you that these girls will fight every inch of the way and never give up."

Although we weren't promised a victory, we were exuberant when the girls won that first game. Throughout the basketball season, that fighting spirit and will to win stayed with our team.

This year Griffith approached the baseball season with an experienced team. Many returning seniors were the backbone of the squad along with juniors and sophomores who offered added strength. Coach Nick Smothers gave the boys that spirit needed for a winning year. With a well-balanced team and high school spirit, our season could rightfully be deemed a success.

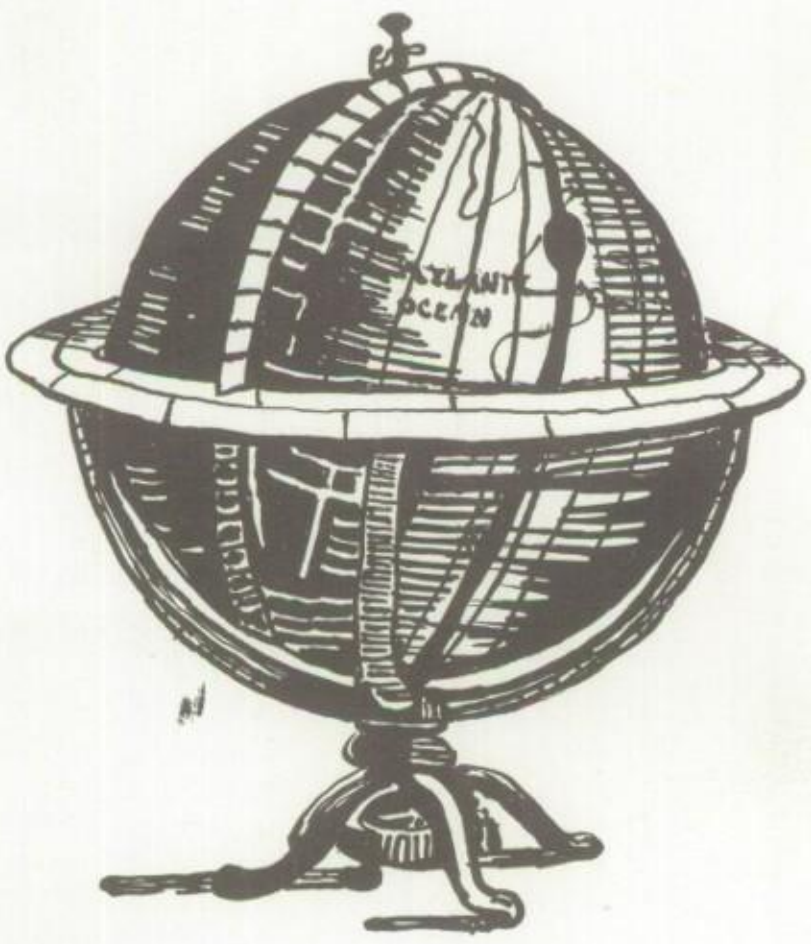
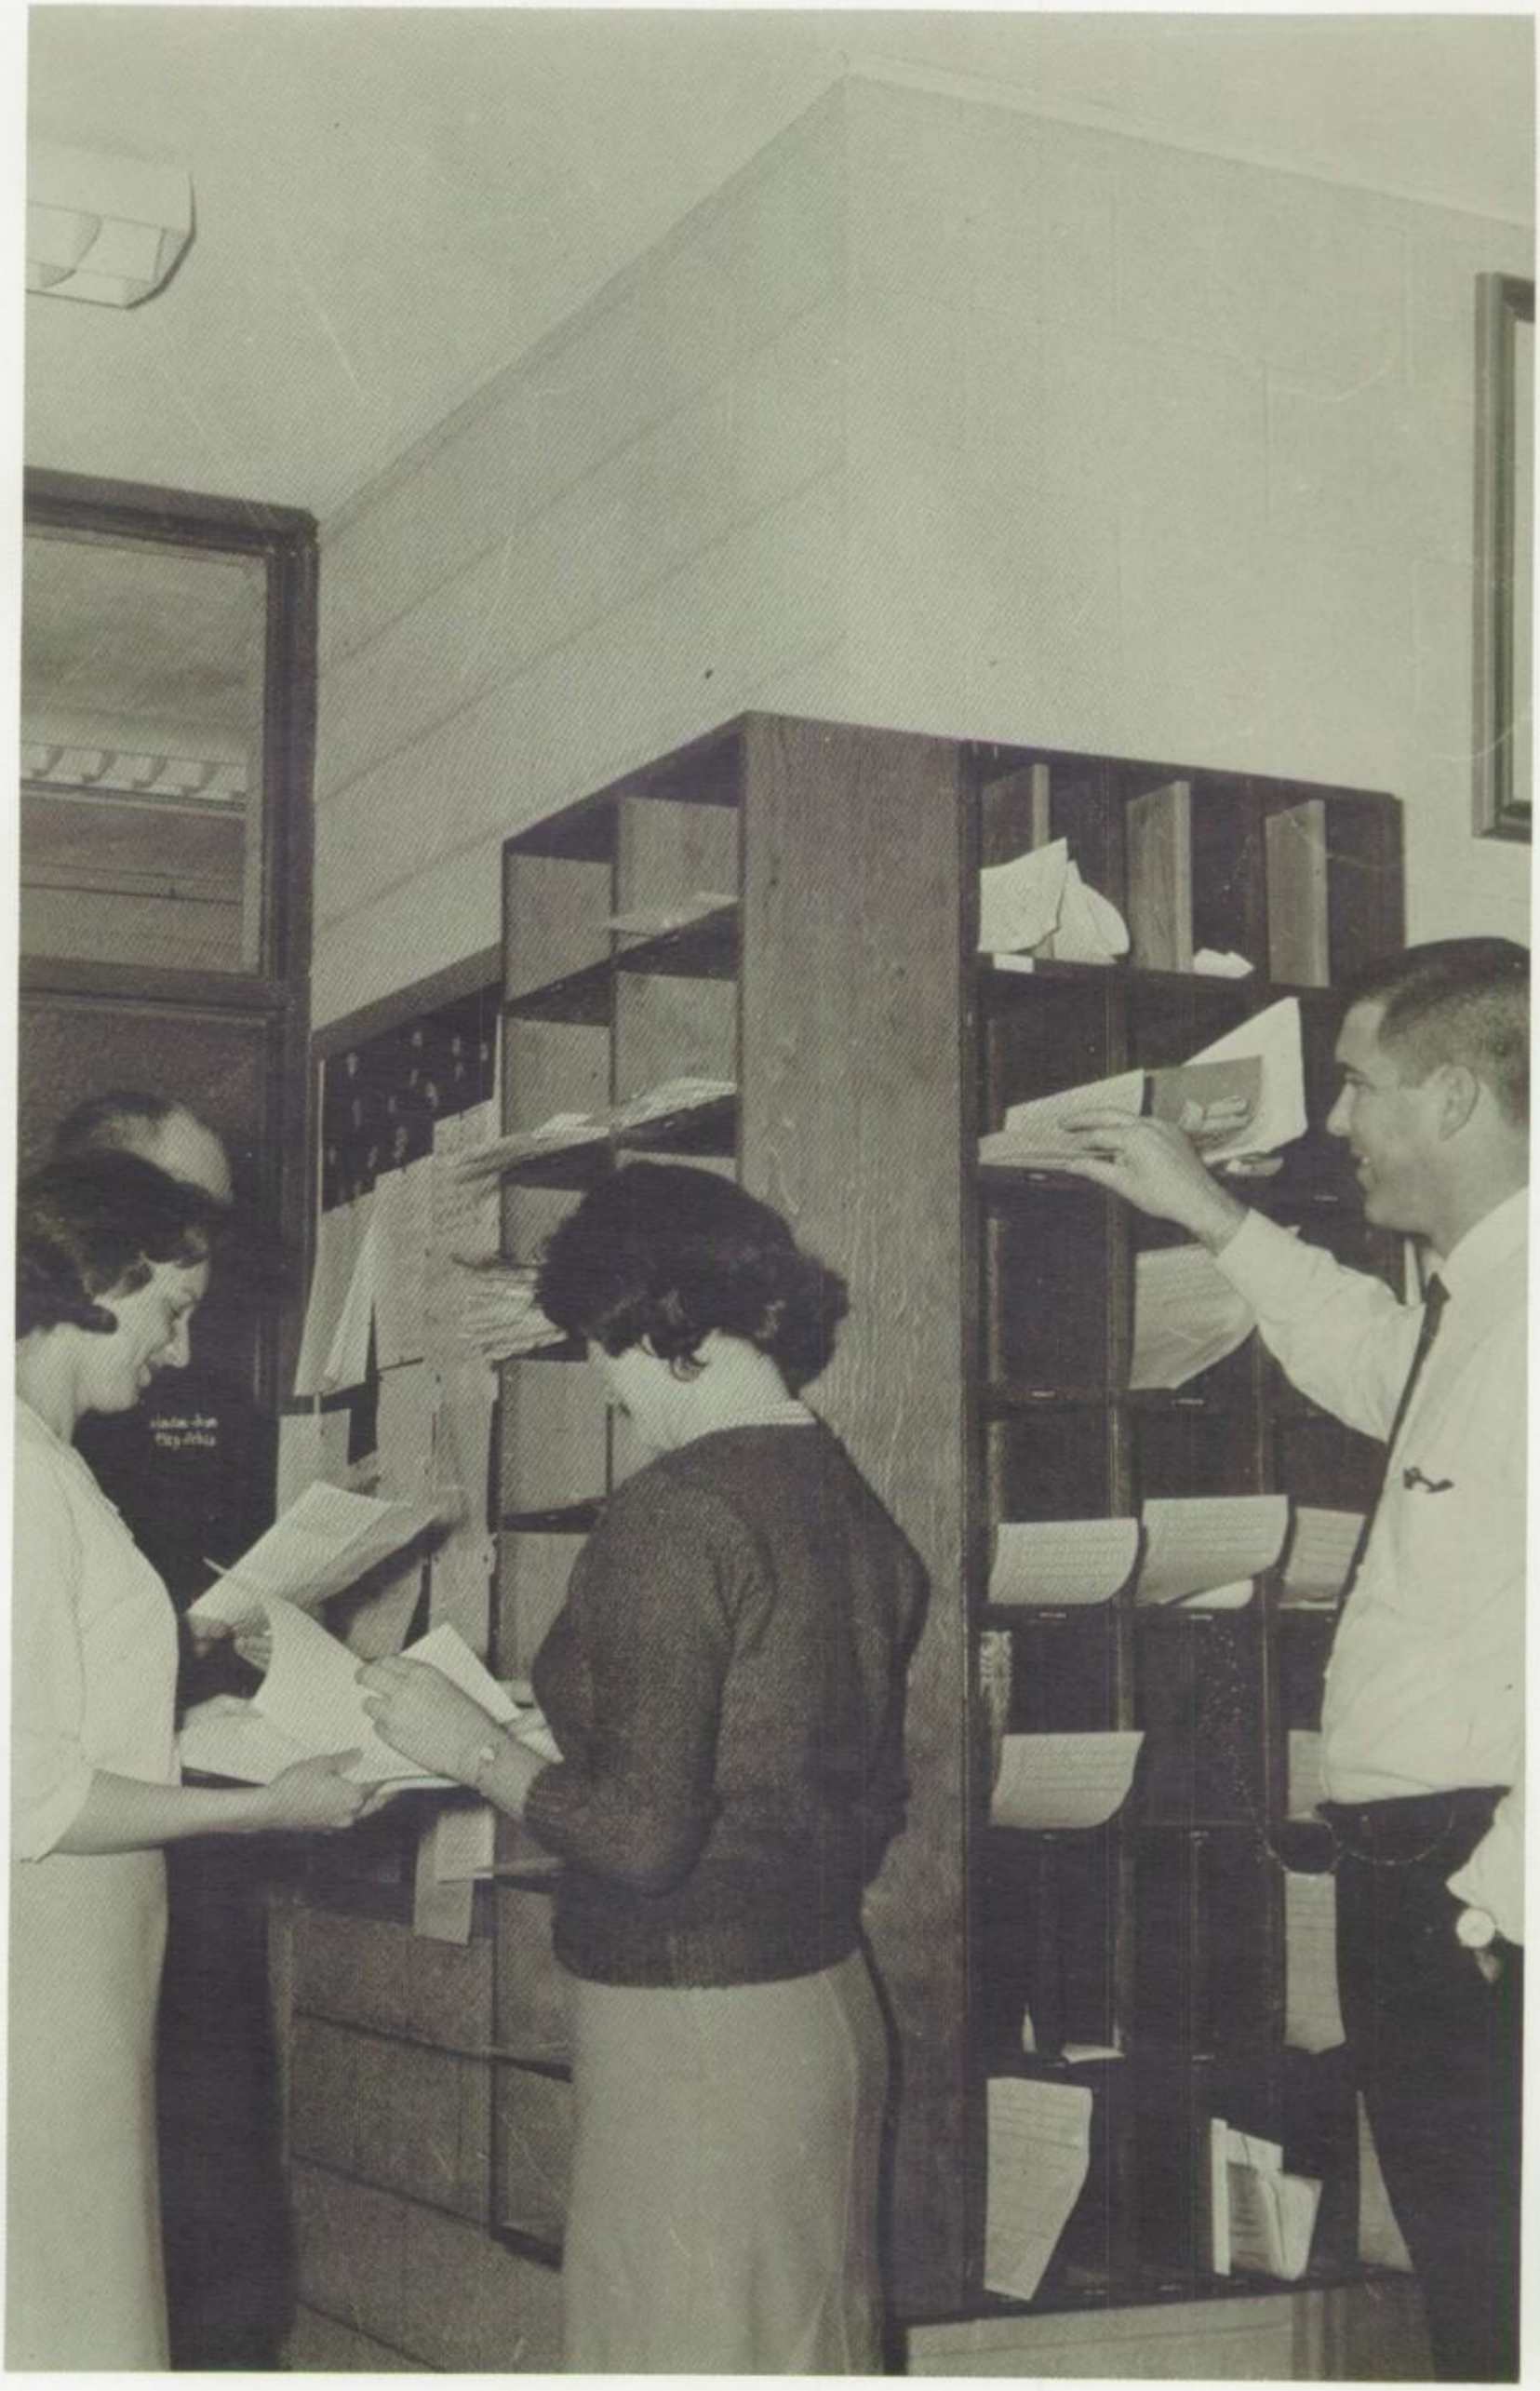
administration

The faculty and administration of Griffith High School try to stimulate the students to learn! The administration is the guiding force of the faculty who, in turn, is in close contact with the student. In this role, the teacher creates an atmosphere of learning, and thereby, inspires and encourages the pupil.

The teacher's duty is to help the student organize and clarify his ideas, so that he may come to know what he believes, what he cares about, and what he wants to do in life. The instructor tries to teach a person to think for himself so that in the future he can meet and answer challenges in his own way.

The attitude of a student toward an instructor and the attitude of an instructor toward a pupil can build or break the student-teacher relationship. This relationship must be maintained for the classroom environment to be one of harmony and understanding.





Mr. Robert J. Bost, Principal

"the torch is passed . .

The administration is the guiding force of Griffith High School. It is composed of the principal, assistant principal, guidance counselor, and secretary. Their duties range from policy making, to the supervision of the faculty; from organization of schedules, to disciplining of the students; from clerical work, to guidance and management of school property. Often they are the subject of unjust criticism from students and parents; yet they endure it. The students of G.H.S. wish to salute them for their fine work.

Mr. Bost smiles as he makes his plans for the day.

This year at Griffith has been one of many changes. Some were well received, and others often produced heated discussions among small groups of students. However, students, both old and new, soon accepted the new era and settled down to enjoy what has been a very successful year at G.H.S.

The seniors have held their honored position with dignity and pride; justifiably so, since they won the class quizzes for the third year.

Becoming upper classmen, the juniors have accepted their share of responsibility, and have helped a great deal in keeping school spirit at a peak all year.

The sophomores have been producing many followers as well as leaders, and are anxiously awaiting the day when they will become upper classmen.

Dick Calloway
Pres.

The sophomore class has been an asset to Griffith this year. Not only have they shown able leadership ability, but they have also been willing to lend a helping hand whenever needed. Though they were followers on many occasions, they have gained invaluable experience which will enable them to be capable leaders in the future.

After finally becoming upperclassmen, the junior class encountered many added responsibilities. Success of the magazine sales and the Junior-Senior proved to the rest of the student body that the juniors were ready for the challenge of the future. The achievements of individuals in the class demonstrated their versatile talents. Participation in the Blue and Gold Revue, in sports, and in other activities requiring special skill was accomplished with ease. Representation in clubs and organizations exhibited the co-operative attitude of the class.

Albert Sink and Linda McKeown were chosen Mr. and Miss Junior at the junior class Christmas party.

Junior sponsors, Mr. Grant Queen, Mr. Joby Matthews, Miss Lynda Pell, Miss Selvey Johnson, and Miss Carolyn Yount discuss the plans for the junior Christmas party.

Susan Mendenhall and James Burwell, who represented the juniors in the annual class quizzes, answer a question after careful deliberation.

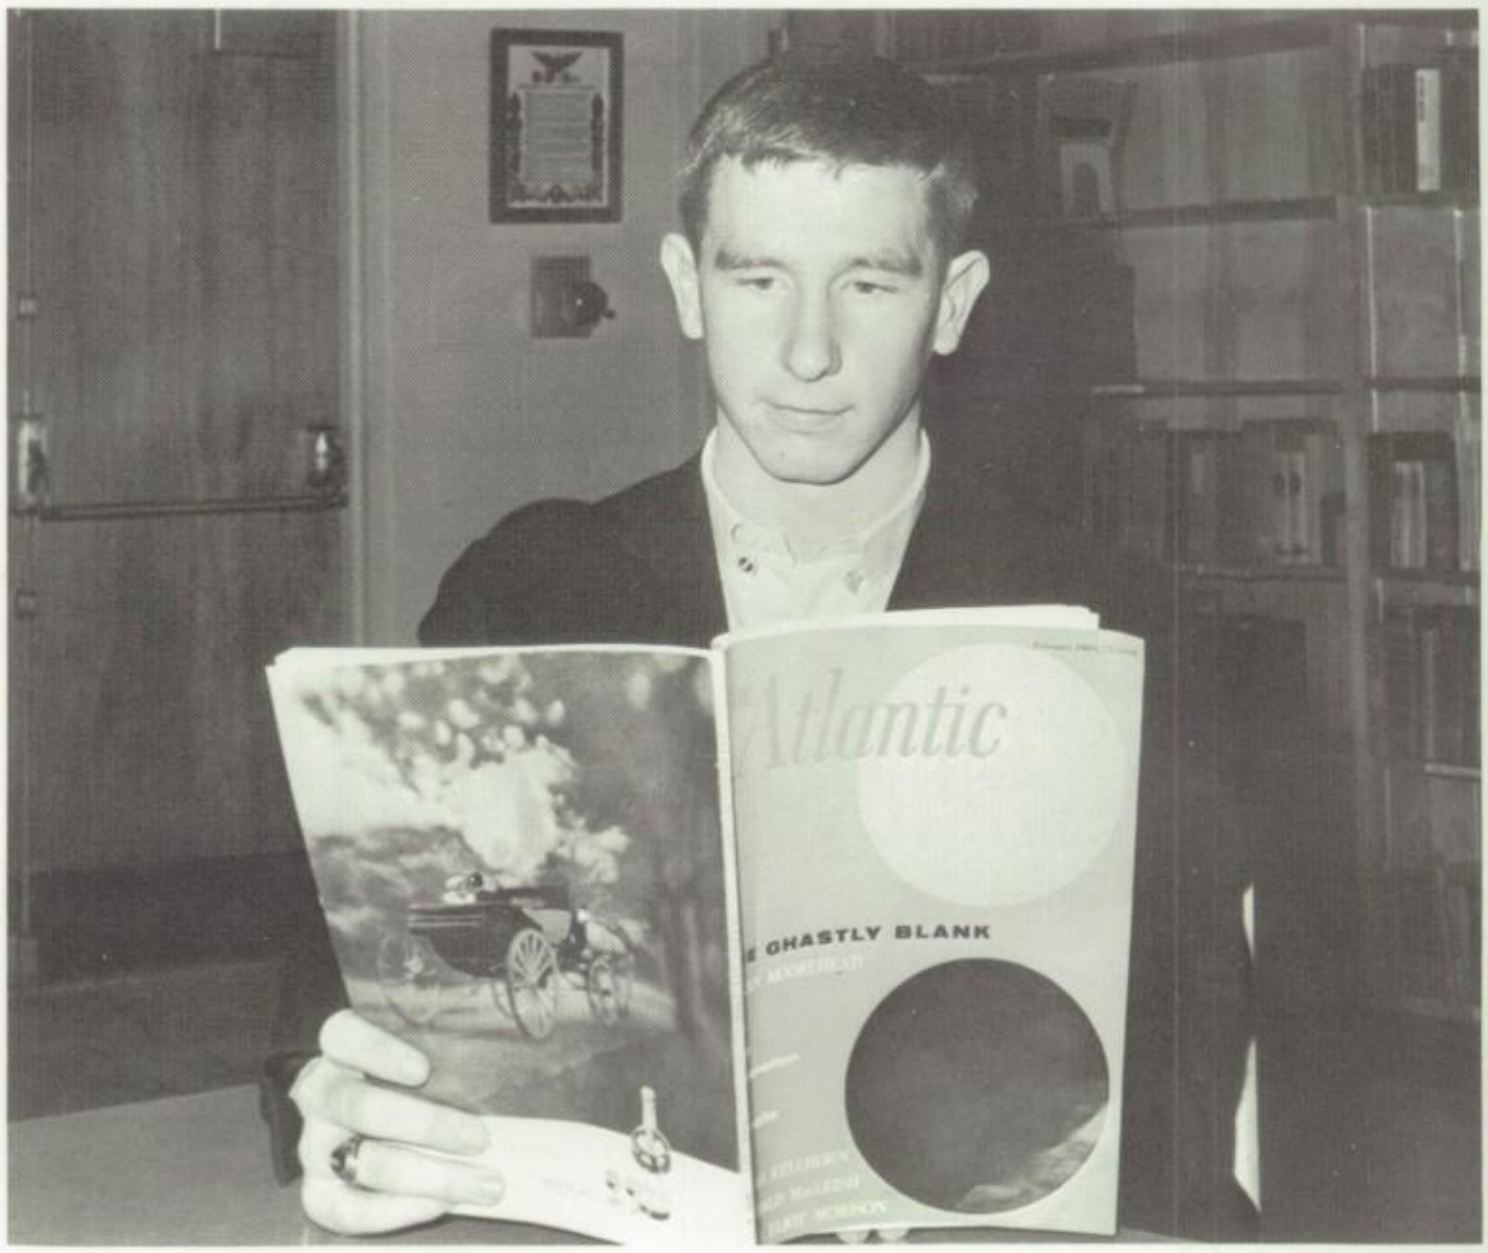
SENIORS OF 1964

After four years of fun, work, hopes, and disappointments, the Class of 1964 finally reached the end of their high school careers. Choosing mascots, deciding the style of graduation invitations to be used, and being measured for caps and gowns were the traditions followed almost mechanically by all the seniors. As the year neared its end, realization of the impending future became apparent. For their last class party, the seniors celebrated Valentine's Day in grand style. An expedition of class superlatives invaded Old Salem to get many candid shots. The class presented the school with a much needed adding machine and tapewriter. Finally the last month of school arrived. The seniors were honored at a spectacular Junior-Senior Prom. In appreciation, the juniors were invited to the annual Senior-Junior picnic. In the excitement of practicing for graduation, and studying for the final exams, time passed quickly. While some continue their education at college, others will accept the responsibilities of jobs and families. Remembrances of happy times at Griffith will remain forever in the hearts of the Class of 1964.



On Awards' Day, RICKY WELBORN was given a Best Citizen's medal presented by the Civitan Club. Ricky was chosen on the basis of his excellence in leadership, scholarship, character, and dependability.

class poem

The years have passed; now this is our last,
What to us seemed slow has gone so fast.

The years to come will decide our fate,
These may bring failure and be hard to take.

Along with the failure there will be success,
For this our class will be remembered best.

School has been fun but it's time to look ahead,
It's time for us to lead instead of being led.

Good luck to each Senior as he goes his way,
We shall all be together again someday.

features

One of the biggest events of the autumn season is Homecoming Weekend. During the halftime of the game, homecoming contestants walked through two columns of the band and were introduced to the enthusiastic crowds. With a fanfare, Bonnie Kimel, last year's queen, held the crown and waited as Linda McKeown was named her successor.

During the Valentine's season, the student body nominated and elected Miss Sweetheart. She was announced at the Twirp Dance, and was honored for the rest of the evening.

This year, the Blue and Gold was honored in having Andy Griffith choose the Annual Queen. Mr. Griffith's personal opinion of beauty was the governing factor in his selection.

homecoming

On a clear, nippy Friday night, Linda McKeown, a junior, was crowned Homecoming Queen. Her attendants were Becky Livengood and Jeanne Green. Looks of happiness and amazement spread across their faces as Dick Calloway announced the queen and her attendants. All of the participants were relieved that this experience was over and once again they could return to normal lives. The entire student body congratulated Linda and her court and thanked them for such a beautiful homecoming. The homecoming dance was held on the following night in honor of the queen and her court. With the autumn theme carried out in decorations, the excitement of the Homecoming weekend ended with an air of satisfaction and success.

The future is coming ... rapidly. Tomorrow's dreams will soon become today's reality. Another school year has passed ... the anxiously-awaited events have taken place. As we look ahead, the challenge of the future stares us in the eye. Frightened, but spurred on by hope, we set our goals high. Despair, heartache, and tears await our attempts to do right, but in the end we will know the satisfaction of success.
